The role of the pediatric nurse is influenced by which trend in health care?   ✕

    ◯ Primary focus on treatment of disease or disability

✓ ⦿ Shift of focus to maintenance of health and illness prevention

    ◯ National health care planning on a distributive or episodic basis

    ◯ Accountability to professional codes and international standards

Rationale

Maintenance of health and illness prevention is the current focus of health care in which nursing plays a major role. Traditionally, the primary focus on treatment of disease or disability is the role of the physician. National health care planning on a distributive or episodic basis is not a major trend. Accountability to professional codes and international standards is an established responsibility, not a trend.

Test-Taking Tip: Avoid looking for an answer pattern or code. There may be times when four or five consecutive questions have the same letter or number for the correct answer.
